

PROGRAM LEADER INTRODUCTION

Stephen K. High

Stephen is a Box of Crayons' program leader, delivering its award-winning coaching skills programs to organizations across North America. He has over 25 years of experience in business operations, executive work and technology, and is a serial investor, with involvement in dozens of start-ups ranging in size from tiny shops to giant unicorns.

Before joining Box of Crayons, Stephen coached individuals across the globe, applying the Box of Crayon method to develop coach-like executives and impacting thousands of companies and organizations. Both his passion for excellence and positive outlook boosts coach-like behaviours in his clients.

Born on Florida's Emerald Coast, Stephen has lived in New York and Texas. He enjoys an enthusiastic approach to life as a pilot, scuba diver, long-distance cyclist, backpacker, canoer, trombonist, photographer and writer.

Stephen is a graduate of the University of Texas, where he studied technology and business, and is currently studying creative writing at in Stanford University.