

PROGRAM LEADER INTRODUCTION

Narumi Isoda

Over the past 20 years, Narumi has worked as a human resources specialist with a wide spectrum of global organizations and industries, including medical equipment, energy management, luxury hospitality, publications and tax account companies specializing in implementing high-impact and high-value employee development solutions and organizational development.

She has an extensive background in developing and facilitating content in leadership development programs, and is certified to deliver training to implement strategic approaches. Passion being one of Narumi's strengths, she has contributed to global talent development programs and to their customization in Japan by partnering with both internal and external stakeholders to uncover the unique local needs and landscape of the organization and its market.

Narumi, an independent consultant on both global and local talent and organizational development, creates learning and development strategies, and designs and delivers other various trainings, including B2C Well-Being coaching for personal development.