

PROGRAM LEADER INTRODUCTION

Vipul Malhotra

“Think Better, Feel Good, Do More , Be You”. This mantra emphasizes Vipul’s belief of “Whole-self learning” by integrating and engaging the mental, physical and emotional parts of clients to learn and grow. He believes people are complete within themselves, they need to discover it by diminishing or eliminating the limiting factors. Drawing inspiration from Acting, he encourages experimentation, experiential and immersive learning by integrating tools from the world of Positive Psychology, Gestalt, Psychodrama, Acting and Transactional Analysis.

Professionally, Vipul shows up as a Coach, Facilitator, and an Actor. He spent the first 13 years of his career, leading people in Operations, Customer Service, Quality, BPO and Training; and built a strong foundation in understanding challenges faced by leaders and businesses. This helped him transition smoothly into his current role, since 2010, as a Facilitator and a Coach. As a trusted listener, the value he brings to his clients is by focusing on their goals and helping them choose and explore where they want to go. He supports people to love what they do and do what they love and have fun while at it. He has worked with leaders to build competencies like Executive Presence, Storytelling skills to influence hearts and minds; Self Awareness for clarity and authenticity; Trust and Inspiration to manage people; Build emotional muscle to lead and navigate challenging situations. While he is a certified Executive Coach from Columbia University, he also specializes in other types of coaching like Developmental, Transformational, Life and Relationship Coaching.

As a passionate certified Psychodrama practitioner, his vision is to create a more compassionate planet and one of his favorite quote is by Dalai Lama – “the planet doesn’t need more successful people, the planet desperately needs more peacemakers, healers, restorers, storytellers and lovers of all kinds.”

Vipul’s favourite song is Imagine by John Lennon and he loves listening to his son play the guitar. He’s constantly evolving and learning in his role as a father. He likes to play scrabble and tennis. He lives in Hong Kong and his passion to travel has taken him to over 15 countries.
